Topical Products that Contain Aspirin

The following topical products are listed as they contain forms of salicylates. While these products are not ingested through the mouth, certain ingredients may be absorbed through the skin and therefore a potential risk where Reye's Syndrome is concerned. Be sure to check ingredient labels. These products are not ingested and as such, not required to carry the aspirin warning. To date no Reye's Syndrome case has been confirmed to have been caused by a topical product; but 5% of confirmed Reye's Syndrome cases list cause as unknown. The NRSF is taking a proactive approach in warning children and adults about potential risk factors of RS.
